Cool. Thanks. I'll see what I can get here.

Hope all is well and you're ready for the upcoming rafting season.

Thanks Greg. I've already spoken to the FOIA folks and revised my request so that it is more appropriate for only electronically available documents. Hopefully that will keep the costs down. Thanks again!

I got the FOIA. Once that's in place, there isn't anything I can do to back out of it. It gets very formal from here on out as everything has to be tracked. Since the FOIA is in place, I have to charge for everything and go one-by-one and upload the documents on the FOIA online and start formal tracking of all time spent. I have some of the documents electronically, but many of them are not electronically available, so those will have to be scanned one-by-one, and it will likely get expensive very quickly.

I will send the documents that I do have electronically via the FOIA online service and then from there, you'll be able to decide what cost threshold is appropriate.

Hi Greg,

How are you doing? I just wanted to let you know that I submitted a FOIA request for the Big Sky Economic Development (BSED) documents that were created under the 2014-2017 Brownfields Assessment Grant. On the EPA website, (I believe) it says one can bypass the FOIA process with an email...is this correct? If so, could I bother you to have someone compile these documents and make them available for me?

I could be incorrect on this, but thought I should give it a try!

Regards,

Tyler Etzel
